

TALKING POINTS
Hegseth's hormone obsession
p.17

THE LAST WORD
Why the Amish love AI
p.36

PEOPLE
How a rock star tames his ego
p.10
Mick Jagger

THE WEEK

THE BEST OF THE U.S. AND INTERNATIONAL MEDIA

Fire starter

Trump's election warning and the threat to the midterms
p.6

JULY 31, 2026
VOLUME 26 ISSUE 1298

Best Properties on the Market

4 ◀ West Coxsackie, N.Y. Haas Hill, a more than 148-acre estate in the Hudson Valley, includes a renovated two-story cottage circa 1950 with a full bath and kitchenette, plus a cabin set up as a kids' bunkhouse. The main English-country-style home has three bedrooms, a kitchen with a new AGA stove, heated terra-cotta floors, and a built-in banquette. The wooded property features a pool, barn, and wildflower garden. $2,450,000. Raj Kumar, Four Seasons Sotheby's International Realty, (201) 689-0533

5 ▶ Woodbury, Ga. The Cove, a 136-plus-acre property along the Pine Mountain Escarpment and Flint River about 45 miles from Columbus, has a main lodge and three furnished guest buildings, including the one seen here, with vaulted wood ceilings and a bay window reading nook. The main three-bedroom has an open plan with a stone fireplace and water-facing deck. Also on the grounds are five ponds, waterfalls, a pool and spa, a tennis court, a dock, and a boathouse. $4,400,000. Jon Kohler, Jon Kohler & Associates, (850) 508-2999

Steal of the week

6 ◀ Thornton, Colo. About 20 minutes north of Denver, this 1955 ranch home has a chalet studio ADU with a bed nook, a pass-through galley kitchen, laundry, and a deck. Across a fenced, xeriscaped courtyard with fountains is the two-bedroom main home, which has an open living area and a kitchen with a granite peninsula and sliders to the back. A pool, community center, and park are walking distance. $515,000. Kim Davis, LIV Sotheby's International Realty, (303) 882-0888